

Four Facts about Rescue Dogs

If you're the proud pet parent of a dog you adopted from a rescue or shelter, you know you have a special bond with your canine companion. Below are a few facts rescue dog owners know to be true:

1. They clean up pretty nice: Your sweet pup has surely come a long way since you two first met. It's amazing what a bath, a happy home, and a loving family can do for a dog's appearance and demeanor.
2. They live in the moment: You'll never see a rescue dog take a tennis ball or a walk on a sunny day for granted. No matter how hard their life was before they were adopted, they know how to enjoy the present moment.
3. They seem to know they were saved: Whether they repay you in companionship, love, laughs, or all three, rescue dogs seem to know they were rescued (and are grateful for it).
4. But in reality, you know you were the one who was rescued: In one way or another, dogs always seem to be there for their owners through tough situations. No matter what life throws at you, you always have a loyal, loving best friend by your side.
